

From: Richard Buckley
To: Microsoft ATR
Date: 1/9/02 10:52am
Subject: For cryin out loud. The Clinton era bashed these

For cryin out loud. The Clinton era bashed these people to no end. This has gone on long enough. I am from the old school "if you build a better mouse trap they will come." All these competitors and Attorney Generals who are crying over Microsoft's success is just sour grapes.

They have created more jobs and more entrepenours, (sic), in this country than any single company in existence. Why bash them about their success?

I do not own any Microsoft stock nor have I ever owned any but I can tell when jealous come into play and that is all this is.

If you want to beat them in the marketplace then make a better product. I will buy it. It is that simple.

Do You Yahoo!?
Send FREE video emails in Yahoo! Mail!
<http://promo.yahoo.com/videomail/>